

Instructor: Date:

Learner: Regional Branch:

Program: Center:

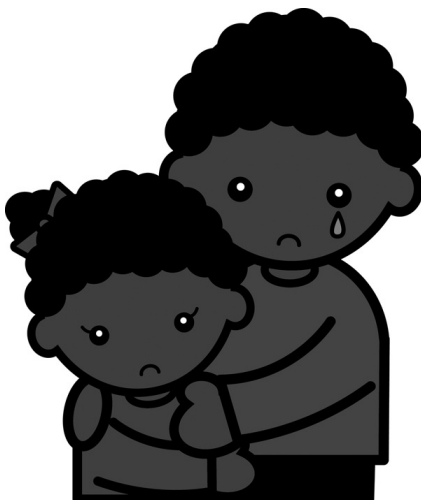

CONTENT

- Let's Start!
- Let's Explore!
- Let's Practice!
- Extension Activity
- Target Words
- Learning Points

Let's Start!

Let's have an ethical debate!

Learning Outcome

Describe necessity, duty, advice, or strong disapproval in written and spoken situations according to work and social contexts.

Ask your partner:

- Does sending aid to developing countries help long-term development? Why? Why not?
- How can we combat corruption in relief efforts?

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about social issues and moral dilemmas.
- I can make polite requests or express disapproval or refusal using if.
- I can talk about under what conditions something is done.

Let's Explore!

Amy raises a few interesting points.

* To "raise a point" means to put it forth as a topic of discussion.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

- Candice: Hi, Amy. If you'll just take a seat right there, I'll be with you ... now, what's on your mind?
- Amy: I've been thinking. I know that in the short term we're helping out, but are we really providing a long-term solution for these people?
- Candice: Of course we are ...
- Amy: I guess I'm just having a bit of an ethical dilemma. I mean, so long as we keep sending care packages, we won't see any lasting progress.
- Candice: That's exactly why we don't send care packages. We realized a long time ago that unless we help the local people through education, we won't see any real change.
- Amy: Isn't it a bit arrogant to think that they even need our help? I mean, if we don't help, they'll just suffer. Is that the idea?
- Candice: Not at all. The effects of colonization, years of poor governance, and civil war have taken their toll. It's our responsibility to help undo some of the mistakes of the past.
- Amy: But how do we know that it's working?
- Candice: If you'll just hold on a second, I'll dig up the numbers ... here they are. You see? In our community, employment is up and the infection rate is down. Provided that we focus on education, I am sure we will continue to see incremental improvements.
- Amy: I guess I'm just focused on this news report I heard about disaster relief. It showed so much corruption and misappropriation of funds.
- Candice: Those NGOs are outdated. If they won't change, then there's really nothing we can do about it. We've got to focus on ourselves.
- Amy: I agree. In the interest of transparency, why don't convince the director to post all of our cash flow online.
- Candice: What a great idea! If he won't do it, I will.

Let's Practice!

Amy analyzes how their help is actually working.

Instructions: Read the clues on the left. Select the correct box in the table. There is only one answer per clue. Read the sentences aloud. Check your pronunciation with your instructor.

	care package	ethical dilemma	misappropriation	helping out	short term
1. The resport I heard indicated inappropriate management of money.
2. We won't see positive results if we simply send food or clothing.
3. We're assisting the native population but not offering an actual solution.
4. Our help only effects people for a short period of time.
5. Lily is confused because she's taking both her personal beliefs and society's guidelines into account.

Let's Practice!

Candice is all about* being polite!

*When someone is "all about something", the person is interested in a particular thing.

Instructions: Read the sentences aloud. Check your pronunciation with your instructor. Match the halves in column A with the halves in column B.

COLUMN A

1. If you'll just take a seat
2. If you'll just hold on
3. If they won't change
4. This is a little upsetting, if you won't

COLUMN B

- a. then, there's really nothing we can do about it.
- b. a second, i'll dig up the numbers.
- c. do it, i will.
- d. right there, i'll be right with you.

Extension Activity

An ethical debate.

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- Write the following statement on a piece of paper:
Sending aid to foreign countries does not help development.
- With a partner or group, write down a list of pros (supporting the statement) and cons (opposed to the statement).
- Go online and find at least three facts to support your views.
- Split up and debate the statement.

Self-Assessment

Yes No

I discuss an ethical dilemma.

☐ ☐

I write a list of pros and cons.

☐ ☐

I research facts to support my point of view.

☐ ☐

I debate an ethical dilemma.

☐ ☐

Target Words

- ethical dilemma (expression): a situation in which a difficult choice has to be made about what is right and what is wrong
e.g. I guess I'm just having a bit of an ethical dilemma.
- care package (noun): a package containing goods such as food and clothing for the needy
e.g. So long as we keep sending care packages, we won't see any lasting progress.
- lasting (adjective): describing something that exists for a long time
e.g. So long as we keep sending care packages, we won't see any lasting progress.
- governance (noun): the way that countries are run
e.g. The effects of colonization, years of poor governance, and civil war have taken their toll.
- to take a toll (expression): to cause damage or suffering
e.g. The effects of colonization, years of poor governance, and civil war have taken their toll.
- disaster relief (noun): money or goods given to people after they have been affected by a natural disaster e.g. I guess I'm just focused on this news report I heard about disaster relief.
- corruption (noun): dishonest or illegal behavior
e.g. There was a lot of corruption within the government.
- misappropriation (noun): inappropriate or illegal management of money or goods e.g. It showed so much corruption and misappropriation of funds.

Learning Points

Will/Won't in the If-Clause

We use will/won't with the if-clause to describe conditions that are likely to come true. Look at the sentence below:

Example: If you come early enough, (then) you will get better seats.

In the example above, the first part of the sentence "If you come early enough" describes a condition. The result or outcome is expressed by the second part of the sentence "you will get better seats."

The "result clause" is always true, whenever the "condition" is true. If, on the other hand, the condition is not met, then the result will also not be realized.

We also use will/won't with the If clause when we want to communicate a polite request, strong disapproval or outright refusal. Look at the examples below:

Uses	Examples
Polite request	If you carry the groceries, I'll cook dinner for you tonight.
Strong disapproval	If they won't do their work properly, there is nothing you can do about it.
Refusal	If you continue this way, I won't help you any more.

Examples:

- If you'll just take a seat right there, I'll be right with you.*
- If you'll just hold on a second, I'll dig up the numbers.*
- If they won't change, then there's really nothing we can do about it.*
- If he won't do it, I will.*

Learning Points

Adverb Clauses of Condition

Adverb clauses can put a condition on an action. You use the conjunctions if, whether, provided that and unless to introduce the condition.

For example:

If you cross the street on a red light, you will get run over.

You will get fat, if you eat too much candy.

Unless you tell me where the party is, I won't be able to attend.

Provided that you do your work, everything will work out in the end.

When you use the unreal conditional you can skip "if".

Look at the following examples:

Examples:

Were I the boss, I would do things differently.

(If I were the boss, I would do things differently.)

Should I run into you again, I won't say hello to you.

(If I should run into you again, I won't say hello to you.)

Examples:

- Unless we help the local people through education, we won't see any real change.
- If we don't help, they'll just suffer.
- Provided that we focus on education, I am sure we will continue to see incremental improvements.

