

Instructor: Date:

Learner: Regional Branch:

Program: Center:

CONTENT

- Let's Start! • Let's Explore! • Let's Practice! • Extension Activity • Target Words • Learning Points

Let's Start!

What's going on at the soup kitchen?

Learning Outcome

Describe necessity, duty, advice, or strong disapproval in written and spoken situations according to work and social contexts.

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about social issues and moral dilemmas.
- I can talk about getting something done.
- I can express what is necessary.

Ask your partner:

- In your local community, where can those in need go to get food?
- Do you think it is helpful to give money to the homeless? Why or why not?

Let's Explore!

At the soup kitchen.

* A "soup kitchen" is a place where those in need can go to get a free meal.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

- Amy: Hi V, I'm so glad Candice got you to do this with me!
- Vanessa: Me too. It feels great to lend a helping hand.
- Amy: It sure does. I've already spoken with a few of the underprivileged folks that we will be serving. For the most part they're wonderful people who have fallen on hard times.
- Vanessa: I'll be honest, though, I'm a bit nervous. I don't think I can do this alone.
- Amy: You don't have to do it alone. It says right here in your volunteering handbook: "New volunteers shall be accompanied by a senior volunteer at all times."
- Vanessa : Oh no! That little leaflet? I thought it was junk mail, so I threw it out! I really should have read it. What else did it say?
- Amy: Well, it says that "all volunteers shall complete a background check" and "volunteers shall not bring personal belongings into the kitchen."
- Vanessa: Phew. I got my police check sent directly to them, so that's taken care of. And I'll get a senior volunteer to store my purse in one of the lockers.
- Amy: Great, well let's get started then!
- Vanessa: What should we do first?
- Amy: Well these plates are all dirty. They clearly should have been cleaned by the first shift of helpers. I think we ought to wash them.
- Vanessa: Absolutely, and we probably ought to scrub the countertops, right?
- Amy: Good thinking. Why don't you start with that while I get the team leader to make a list of duties for us?
- Vanessa: Sounds like a plan. I'm so glad you're here, Amy. I feel better about this already!

Let's Practice!

Helping others is an important conversation to have.

Instructions: Find the definitions in the word search below. Use the words to create sentences with them. Practice saying the sentences aloud. Check your pronunciation with your instructor.

Words

1. When you assist someone voluntarily, you lend a ____.
2. Having fewer advantages, privileges and opportunities than other people
3. When you experience difficult times, you may sometimes fall on
4. Information and rules are contained in this small book.
5. An action or task required by someone in authority

Let's Practice!

Amy and Vanessa do enjoy working together!

Instructions: Organize the mystery sentence. Write each sentence in the correct order below. Read the sentences aloud. Check your pronunciation with your instructor.

1. to do / with you. / I got / I'm / this / so glad

2. to them. / sent directly / I got / my police / check

3. to store / a senior / lockers. / I'll get / of the / in one / volunteer / my purse

4. to make / for us? / get the / a list / Why / team leader / of duties / don't you

Extension Activity

Lend a helping hand.

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- Think of a place in your community where there is a need (i.e. homelessness, after-school education).
- Brainstorm ten ways in which you could help.
- Convert your notes into a one-paragraph proposal.
- Share your proposal with a partner.

Self-Assessment

Yes

No

I brainstorm volunteering ideas.

☐ ☐

I write a proposal about volunteering.

☐ ☐

I share my ideas with a partner.

☐ ☐

Target Words

- to lend a hand (expression): to help
e.g. It feels great to lend a helping hand.
- underprivileged (adjective): lacking resources; poor
e.g. I've already spoken with a few of the underprivileged folks that we will be serving.
- to fall on hard times (expression): to lose money or to go through a difficult period e.g. For the most part they're wonderful people who have fallen on hard times.
- handbook (noun): a small book that contains advice, information or rules e.g. You should have read your volunteering handbook.
- leaflet (noun): a piece of paper that gives you information about something e.g. I got a few leaflets in the mail.
- junk mail (noun): advertisements for products that are sent to people without being requested
e.g. I thought it was junk mail, so I threw it out.
- duty (noun): responsibility; task
e.g. Why don't you start with that while I get the team leader to make a list of duties for us?

Learning Points

Causative Verb: To Get

The verb to get has a couple of different meanings in English. It also has a causative meaning.

Let's review the uses of the verb to get:

1. To talk about things you receive or end up having or holding.

I got the impression he wasn't happy.

2. To talk about things you achieve or obtain.

I got a prize for having the best costume.

3. To talk about a disease or ailment you contracted

I got a cold after walking in the snow.

4. To talk about entering or reaching a place.

She got to the station a half hour late.

You can use get as a causative verb to talk about an action that a person did for you. The subject of the sentence caused the action to happen, but didn't do it directly.

For example:

I'm so glad Candice got you to do this with me!

Get + object + past participle (get something done)

For example:

I got my police check sent directly to them.

Sometimes, you use get when you want to convey the feeling that you need to convince someone to do something.

Examples:

- I'll get a senior volunteer to store my purse in one of the lockers.
- Why don't you start with that while I get the team leader to make a list of duties for us?

Learning Points

Expressing Necessity: Should/Ought to/Shall

You use the modals should, ought to and shall to talk about necessity in the present, past and future.

Should and ought to + infinitive express obligation and duty.

You use should when you offer a subjective opinion.

For example:

I think he should apologize.

You use ought to to refer to a more general and more objective opinion:

We ought to protect endangered species.

When you want to refer to past obligations and necessities, you add the modal have to the sentence.

For example:

You should have seen a doctor.

We ought to have been more careful.

You use shall to express formal rules and regulations or commands:

Backstage workers shall wear their credentials at all times.

They shall not be allowed to enter.

Examples:

- New volunteers shall be accompanied by a senior volunteer at all times.
- I really should have read it.
- Absolutely, and we probably ought to scrub the countertops, right?

